- ★ Busted-Isle 'Liberators'
- ★ The Declining Beer Dollar
- ★ Which Is the More Moral?

The attempt by Puerto Rican assassins to enter the Blair house Wednesday and kill President Truman shocked America.

Officers said the men were Puerto Rican "Nationalists"—members of a small but fanatical party which is urging independence for the island. And, as zealous sometimes do, they reached the strange conclusion that the way to help their country was to kill the president of the only other country that ever befriended them.

We'll handle the would-be assassins, all right—but what the rest of the party members back in Puerto Rico need is a bundle of current newspapers telling them about another island country that wanted independence... the Philippines.

The United States liberated the Philippines from the colonial rule of Spain, spent millions a year on the island people, and gave them their own local government—but the Philippines still demanded full independence. So they got it... despite the forecast of experts that the Philippines couldn't exist without the tariff and subsidy help they enjoyed before independence.

Well, the Philippines have run through 2 billion dollars we've given them since the end of World War II—and now they're back to our congress with a plea for 250 million more to save them from bankruptcy. And they'll get it, in exchange for pledges to straighten out their incompetent and corrupt island government.

We'd be glad to get rid of Puerto Rico, too. However, the majority of Puerto Ricans are smarter than the Filipinos—this radical "Nationalist" party whose members tried to kill President Truman couldn't win even one seat in the native legislature at the last election.

Providence spared Mr. Truman—perhaps out of kindness for an ordinary man who just happened to be president of a democracy of ordinary men trying to do good in an ungrateful world.

The prohibitionists being notorious for suppressing all figures except those which help their case, it is the duty of a newspaper to present the figures that are left out. To hear a prohibitionist's harangue you would suppose that ever since the repeal of the 18th Amendment Americans have been drinking themselves to death.

Actually, since the day of the automobile, the movie, and the radio, Americans have been consuming less liquor and beer per capita than a generation ago. For the simple reason that the average person gets more enjoyment out of those other things than he does out of liquor or beer—and he has only so many dollars to spend, all told.

On October 26 the Wall Street Journal, which prints the figures that America's banks and insurance companies gamble billions of dollars' investments on, reported: "Per capita consumption of beer, at a peak 21 gallons in 1913-14, is now about 17 gallons."

Right after 1913-14 Americans discovered time-payments could be made on automobiles; then there were movies and other places of entertainment to go to besides saloons—and liquor-beer's share of the American dollar began to slide.

But there will always be some drinking. What is drunk is a luxury, and today when the state has to levy direct taxes against bread for men and milk for children that luxury drink should pay a very high tax indeed.

But Initiated Act No. 2 (A State-Wide Prohibition Act), which you will vote on next Tuesday, would make liquor and beer tax-free.

Last year liquor and beer taxes produced $6,458,500 for the State of Arkansas.

Which is the greater morality: Retaining legal sale and control of liquor, and its $6,458,500 tax income; or outlawing liquor and requiring its $6,458,500 tax to be added onto the taxes already borne by bread and milk?

Which is the greater morality: Legal liquor control and taxes that contribute to the public schools and other agencies of a civilized state; or virtuous prohibition and a bankrupt educational system?

The great school states of America are the great liquor-control states, too. And the people of Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky are just as good as the people of Arkansas.

The defeat of Act 2 is imperative because Arkansas' public schools, already in need of more money, have absolutely got to hold on to the revenues that they now have.

I've an idea we can dig up a few millions to bail the schools out of their present emergency—providing existing revenues are undisturbed. But if the voters knock out the $6,458,500 liquor tax the schools are over a barrel.

I'll let the orators talk about morality.

But I'll tell 'em one thing: Bringing children into the world and then neglecting their school buildings and teachers is immorality at its height.

Red Resistance Imperils Allies in Border Push

Seoul, Nov. 2 (AP)—American cavalrymen gave up tonight a day-long fight to rescue nearly 5,000 foot troopers surrounded by Communist forces in northwest Korea. The trapped men were ordered to attempt a breakout on their own. They faced terrific odds—and grinning furiously fighting Reds who turned captured American guns on the surrounded U. S. foot troopers.

Some Americans already had escaped the trap. It was clamped shut last night by overwhelming Communist forces including Chinese Red troops in strength.

The regiment—one-third of the U. S. First Cavalry division—was cut off near a dry river bed four miles southwest of Unsan. This is where Reds have made their strongest fight of the North Korean campaign.

Unsan is 66 air miles north of Pyongyang, former Red Korean capital.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, division commander, said the regiment had been "very badly hurt."

A spokesman told AP Correspondent Tom Lambert the rescue team ran into a "stone wall" of resistance.

American soldiers who escaped the trap said there were many Chinese Reds in the enemy force.

A Chinese prisoner said the force included 3,000 Chinese Red soldiers.

Correspondent Lambert, with the division, quoted an American platoon sergeant as saying the Chinese soldiers were "crazy." The sergeant added:

"They would stand right up in Local 4-H Club leaders are urged to attend the day's 4-H Club exercises by Extension Agents, Oliver L. Adams and Lorraine Blackwood, who direct 4-H Club activities in the county.

Vote Here and at Prescott Nov. 7 Likely to Break Tie on U. S. Aid for Hospitals

Two of four Southwest Arkansas counties which have built public hospitals recently rejected federal-aid proposals and put up the structures with 100 per cent county funds—but the balance will swing toward federal aid if additional hospital projects to be voted on in Hempstead and Nevada counties carry November 7.

Howard and LaFayette counties turned down federal grants, Howard building a $200,000 structure at Nashville with a county bond issue, and LaFayette financing a $250,000 hospital at Lewisville with $150,000 of county bonds and local help.

But Ouachita county took two-thirds federal aid in constructing a $1,310,000 hospital at Camden; and Clark county got $89,000 federal help in putting up a $269,000 structure at Arkadelphia.

The projected Hempstead county hospital here, and the Nevada county institution at Prescott both call for two-thirds federal aid, exclusive of land cost. The local third in each county will be financed by county bond issues if the voters approve on November 7.

A survey by Hope Star of the six shows that the tax required to cover hospital construction ranges from 2 to 3 1/2 mills. Under state law all counties are limited to a total of 5 mills for combined construction costs of courthouse, jails and hospitals.

The tax limit for maintenance of a hospital is one mill—but at least two of the counties are resolved to make their projects self-supporting. In telephone interviews Jimmy Hobgood of Arkadelphia, who played an important part in getting the Clark County Memorial Hospital built, said the county expects it to pay its own way; and Ouachita County Judge Miles Reynolds, who managed the financing of the institution at Camden, said the same thing.

Here are the details on the various Southwest Arkansas hospital projects:

Howard—Hempstead county will vote November 7 on a $900,000 hospital proposal, two-thirds to be borne by the federal government, the balance $300,000 to be raised by a county bond issue. Although this latter figure may be reduced by credits for equipment donated by existing local hospitals.

With 1 1/2 of the 5-mill allowable for construction purposes already taken by the Hempstead county courthouse-jail, the highest possible tax that could be levied for the hospital is 3 1/2 mills. Frank McLarty, president of Hope Chamber of Commerce, which organization promoted the project, says the actual tax levy will probably be 3 mills.

The question of a maintenance tax, limited by law to not more than one mill, will not come up for two years, since it is estimated it will take that long to build the hospital should the project be approved in next Tuesday's election.

The Hempstead hospital would be built of brick, fire-proof, and providing 80 beds—which capacity could be expanded to 100 beds later on.

The only federal requirement, according to Mr. McLarty, is that the building be maintained as a non-profit hospital for 20 years.

It would be operated by a board of seven or nine persons appointed by the county judge and quorum court for varying terms so political control would be unlikely in any one county judge's administration. This board would hire the manager who will actually run the institution.

Prescott—Nevada county will vote November 7 on a $429,250 hospital project, the federal government granting two-thirds or $279,500 and the county raising the $149,750 balance.

Nevada county will vote on a 2-mill tax for construction and a 1-mill tax for maintenance.

Camden—The Ouachita county hospital, recently completed, cost $1,310,000, of which the federal government paid two-thirds.

However, Ouachita county actually raised $400,000 with a bond issue, using a 3-mill construction tax. This provided, according to County Judge Reynolds, between $100,000 and $150,000 more than the county's share of actual construction. He said the county wanted this extra reserve in order to be able to landscape the hospital grounds and provide working capital for the management.

Judge Reynolds said the county has no plans for levying a maintenance tax, expecting the hospital to pay its own way.

It is a 100-bed structure, fully fire-proof.

Arkadelphia—Clark county has completed its Memorial Hospital at a total cost of $289,000, of which the federal government granted $89,000 and the county raised the $200,000 balance with a bond issue, using a 2 1/2 mill construction tax.

Mr. Hobgood explained that Clark county might have obtained a federal grant up to $100,000 if the county had qualified for it, but some of the local bond money was used to buy land.

The Clark county hospital is of brick, fire-proof, and while it has only 28 beds the general facilities—operating rooms, nursery, kitchen, and administrative offices—are designed to serve a 100-bed institution. Mr. Hobgood said the building could be enlarged later on either with a wing or an additional story.

Clark county expects the hospital to be self-supporting, and doesn't plan on any maintenance tax, he concluded.

Nashville—Howard county built its Memorial Hospital with 100 per cent local money. According to Dr. H. H. Holt, of Nashville, it rejected a federal proposal and put up a $200,000 structure of 54 beds, fully fire-proof, with a county bond issue.

The amount of the issue was $200,000, and the construction tax was 3 1/2 mills, according to the county clerk's office.

Lewisville—The LaFayette County Memorial Hospital was built at a cost which will ultimately total about $250,000, according to F. J. Schweitzer, business manager.

LaFayette county refused federal aid, voted a $150,000 county bond issue, supported by a 2-mill construction tax; and obtained land and other local aid which will ultimately fix the hospital valuation at around $250,000.

LaFayette county is voting on a proposal to levy a 1-mill maintenance tax for the hospital.

School on Tailoring Held Here

At the one-day tailoring school conducted by Miss Sue Marshall, Extension Clothing Specialist from Little Rock, at the home of Lorraine Blackwood, Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Marshall showed the 13 clothing leaders attending how to put on tailored collars, how to ease fullness out of sleeves, and how to put in interfacings in suits and coats, along with other tailoring construction problems. Each local leader made samples of the tailoring problems shown by Miss Marshall to use as illustrative material at the Home Demonstration Clubs throughout the coming year.

Leaders attending the school were: Mrs. Clayborn Rowe and Mrs. Lacy Rowe, Victory Home Demonstration Club; Mrs. J. E. Delaney, Mrs. Fred Caldwell, and Mrs. Allen Downs, Columbus; Mrs. Weir Owens, Baker; Mrs. John Keck, Hopewell; Mrs. D. B. Dragoo and Mrs. Tilman Bearden, Green Laster; Mrs. C. A. ## Hope Circle to Participate in WOW Meeting

The members of the Southern District No. 1 of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle will convene Thursday, November 9 at the I. O. O. F. Hall in Texarkana, Alexander Grove No. 537-Texarkana, and Sweet Bay Grove No. 147-Huttig.

The Drift Team, from Grove No. 106-Hope, will also be present. On the agenda is the Opening, Bulling, Election and Installation of Officers, Initiation and Closing Ceremonies. Proficiency certificates will be presented.

Carrie Carroll, District President and member of Grove No. 143 Huttig will preside at the regular business and ritualistic meeting beginning at 1 p. m. She will be assisted by the Drift Team from Grove No. 106-Hope.

The President takes a daily walk every morning before breakfast. A secret service agent walks beside him. Several walk close by. And a secret service car, heavily armed and manned, pursues along beside or behind them.

Or the President goes on a train trip. His train is loaded with secret service men. The departure of the presidential train is timed to follow close behind a regular passenger express train going on the same tracks. Or the presidential train is preceded by a pilot train.

In both cases the purpose is to be sure the trucks are cleared safe. To be further safe, there are guards at every switch, trestle and overpass on the way to prevent any attempt to wreck the train.

Field secret service agents, detectives and patrolmen are on guard at every railroad station through which the train moves. And when the train reaches its destination, the point at which the President gets off the train is marked to the inch.

Killers Were Long Way From President

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—There were secret service men inside Blair House where President Truman was sleeping when two Puerto Ricans tried to shoot their way in yesterday to kill him.

They were shot down outside by police and secret service men, first a shooting three policemen. But if they had escaped unhurt outside and tried to kick in the door, they would have received a blazing welcome.

The street shooting had aroused and alerted everyone inside, including the President, who jumped awake and ran to the window. So the inside secret service men had plenty of time to get ready for the gunmen.

About 15 secret service men have the job of guarding the President and his family around the clock. Congress gave the service that responsibility after the assassination of President McKinley in 1901.

While the White House is being repaired the President conducts his business there but he and his family live across the street at Pennsylvania avenue—in Blair House, a building with high front steps.

The 25 secret service men have to guard the President in the White House, in Blair House, on the street, and anywhere he goes.

An additional 100 uniformed policemen help as guards at the White House and Blair House but they give some idea of how the service goes about it.

The President takes a daily walk every morning before breakfast. A secret service agent walks beside him. Several walk close by. And a secret service car, heavily armed and manned, pursues along beside or behind them.

WEATHER FORECAST
Arkansas: Partly cloudy, this afternoon, tonight, Friday and warmer in north portion.

By STERLING J. GRAY

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—A deranged man who was wounded survivor of the Puerto Rican revolutionaries fell in a blaze of gunfire yesterday to assassinate President Truman.

Spared by the firing, the man, who was wounded in the chest, was taken to a nearby hospital. He planned to hold a news conference today, a barrage of questions about the assassination.

One of the would-be assassins was shot dead by police. The other was dropped, wounded, the Blair House steps, and expected to recover to face a murder charge.

The secret service, its guard around Mr. Truman, dropped off part of the guard on Pennsylvania avenue, briefly had become a battle zone.

Three police were killed in the fusillade before the assassins were stopped. One of them, Private Leslie Coffey, died last night.

For this, police filed a murder charge against Oscar Collazo, of New York, who blasted his way to the very doorstep of the Blair House before he was dropped, chest riddled with bullets. A minimum penalty for murder in the District of Columbia is death.

The other gunman, Griselio Torresola, was killed almost immediately. Shot through the head, he fell close under the second doorway where the President was sleeping in the temporary residence.

In the youthful 19-year-old pocket were two letters with the names of Pedro Campos, head of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party, and U.S. Senator J. William Fulbright, in the island capital, San Juan.

One of the letters, dated 21 from San Juan, was addressed to the president, and the other to the vice president, both identifying the assassination as a triumph.

The Nationalist party group, a minority in the island, has been active in general subversive activity, calling unconstitutional acts of the U. S. government "a triumph."

Island officials have said the party gets support from Communists, but there was no Communist participation in the assassination plot.

The Communist party, known as "proletariat," in a letter issued by William Z. Foster, National Chairman, "The Communist party rejects and condemns assassination," he said.

It was a proud day for the secret service, whose agents, in the job and whose uniforms of White House police, were brunt of the battle.

But top of the list, the service, Joseph H. Dowd, Private Donald T. Blinn, seriously wounded in the hospital. Both Blinn and Blinn were shattered. They were "critical, very serious" with chest and stomach wounds.

In another hospital, a wounded Collazo was said to be "just political," he said. Asked why he came here, New York two days after the attack.

The Blair House detail strengthened. The secret service evidently intended to keep the presidential residence safe. The metropolitan police, extra men to White House.

And the secret service, worried over Mr. Truman's habits, loaded at gunpoint to escort the President to a cemetery for a Mass many yesterday afternoon, load of police followed.

UN to Arm With Broad Powers

New York, Nov. 2 —(AP)—The United Nations general assembly moved today toward arming itself with broad powers to discover and combat aggression when the veto hampers the security council.

It is scheduled to ratify formally an American-backed plan for collective security on a world wide basis and to approve a request that the five major powers try again to settle their differences.

U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles repeated yesterday that America is ready to talk peace with Russia at any time. He warned, however, that the possibilities of success are limited because the United States will not be a party to the Russian program of violently coercing people to submit to "the Soviet brand of imperialism."

He said: "The issue on which we part is the issue of whether freedom and diversity shall be systematically replaced by enforced conformity with the pattern of Soviet totalitarianism."

"That basic issue does not concern merely, or even primarily, the United States. If the United States gave way, the smaller nations would first pay the price, for they cannot survive unless there is collective support of a system of tolerance. That is the basic issue from which stem the particular controversies that create the danger points."

Take Austria, Germany or Korea. It would be possible to reach agreement at any time if we accept conditions which would subject all Austrians, all Germans and all Koreans to dictation and servitude such as is now imposed on Poles and Czechs."

The veto-free system of collective security for which Dulles spoke has been overwhelmingly approved in the assembly's 60-nation political committee. That assures the resolution's ratification by the assembly itself.

The plan calls for a peace patrol to check on the world's trouble spots, for the calling of emergency assembly sessions on 24 hours notice and for member countries to earmark some of their military units for use by the United Nations in times of crisis.

The Soviet union already has served notice that it will make an all-out fight against the plan.

U. S. Tightens on Shipments to Red China

Washington, Oct. 31 —(AP)—Senator O'Connor (D-Md.) said today that precautions taken by the government "should result in tightened controls along the line" to prevent strategic materials from reaching China and other Communist areas.

O'Connor is chairman of a senate commerce subcommittee which received testimony yesterday that within the last year more than 3,500,000 pounds of copper and more than 12,000 steel roller tubes were shipped to Red China from occupied Germany.

The copper made a round the world trip from Japan and China passing through New York en route. Some of the boiler tubes, too, were shipped by China by way of New York.

O'Connor went into a private conference with defense and commerce department officials after the public hearing and commerce department officials after the public hearing and later announced he had received assurances of cooperation in checking off such shipments to Communist controlled nations.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that there will be no more copper making a world round trip from Japan into China via the United States."

The subcommittee has been looking into shipments of oil and other war useful materials to Communist China, especially since the start of the Korean fighting last June.

O'Connor told newsmen he believed the investigation has shown "how resourceful Communist importers are in getting the products they want." But he added that "now, with our responsible officials thoroughly on guard against such procedure, it is reasonable to expect that few, if any, strategic items, will get through to Communist controlled areas."

At the hearing yesterday, testimony showed that most of the copper sent from Japan to Communist China had been purchased by the Kane Import company of New York City for the North China Import company.

Walter Spitzer, import manager of the Kane company, told of buying more than 3,500,000 pounds of 99.9 per cent pure copper — most of it while it was aboard ships which had loaded it in Japan. He said it was reshipped from New York.

The only ships he mentioned as hauling the copper were vessels of the Isbrandtsen line of New York.

Lie Almost Certain to Be Elected

New York, Nov. 1 — (AP) — The United Nations general assembly drove toward a showdown vote today on keeping Trygve Lie as secretary general.

The American-led fight to retain Lie was assured of victory, since only Russia and her satellites opposed the move in a debate which raged all yesterday.

The U. S. feels that an extension of Lie's term will be tantamount to a vote of confidence for his support of U. N. action in Korea. It charges that the Russian attempt to bound him from office stems from the same root.

The west waited to see, meanwhile, what new trick Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky might have up his sleeve.

The wily Kremlin has served notice that he will give a final explanation of Russia's opposition to Lie today and tell just what action the Soviet will take if he is kept in office.

He told the 90-nation assembly yesterday that Lie was a stooge of the American government and Russia would refuse to deal with him if he were kept in his present job.

One after another the delegates from White Russia, the Ukraine,

Poland and Czechoslovakia mounted the rostrum at Flushing Meadow and mechanically repeated that they wouldn't have anything to do with Lie either.

British Minister of State Kenneth Younger scornfully laughed off what he called "these empty threats," but Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson denounced them as a crude Russian attempt to use pressure on other nations.

Younger pointed out that Russia had backed down on previous threats to boycott all U. N. meetings where Nationalist China was represented. He also recalled that the Soviet Union had not unlearned the "dire consequences" which it had threatened would follow Yugoslavia's election to the security council last year.

There was considerable talk in the corridors that Vishinsky was stung by the lack of effect his threat to cut Lie had had and might make more drastic statements today.

Lie himself is expected to leave the platform as soon as the battle over his status begins. He went home during the debate yesterday, but was reported to have followed the proceedings closely on television.

Congress
Faces Tax
Question

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 1 — (AP) — This gives some of the arguments over a major question congress must tackle when it returns this month:

To keep them from profiting too much off the defense program, should the regular corporation tax on business firms be increased or should they be placed under an excess profits tax?

Right now the regular corporation tax on a firm is 25 per cent of the first $25,000 of earnings and 45 per cent on all over that.

Congress could increase this regular tax any way it wished. For example, by making firms pay a flat tax of 65 per cent on all their earnings.

So much for the regular corporation tax. Now for the excess profits tax. It's too complicated to be explained fully here. Here is an outline:

During the World War II years of 1940-45 corporations had to pay an excess profits levy. This was ended with the war's end in 1945. It went this way:

To find out what could be considered its average earnings and, therefore, what would be considered in excess of the average, the law said:

A firm would figure its average yearly earnings for the pre-war years of 1936-39.

Then during the war years it paid a flat 40 per cent tax on each year's earnings that did not exceed the 1936-39 average, plus an excess profits tax of 95 per cent on all earnings above the average.

After the war each firm was entitled to a refund of 10 percent so that the excess profits tax actually figured out at 85 1/2 percent.

But firms could get other refunds, making the tax less than 85 1/2 percent, for various reasons. For example:

A company made one kind of product in 1936-39 but changed to another after 1940; or a company might have been flattened by a flood or strike some time between 1936-39, thus bringing down its average earnings for that period.

In the latter case the firm which had small earnings in 1936 would be at a disadvantage when, getting on its feet after 1940, it had to figure its profits that were in excess of its 1936-39 average.

As a result of many provisions in the law for firms to get refunds, the internal revenue bureau had a mountain of work and still has, since even now all the claims for refunds haven't been settled.

(There have been about 55,000 claims for refunds. About 15,000 still are pending in the internal revenue bureau. That bureau, which collected $39,000,000,000 in excess profits taxes during the war years, has refunded about $5,000,000,000.)

Some of those now opposing the excess profits tax idea argue that any higher tax on corporations should be in the form of a flat tax increase, with no refund strings attached. Some of their arguments follow:

An excess profits tax again will mean endless bookkeeping and headaches for the government and business. (President Truman doesn't argue that way. He wants an excess profits tax.) And—

While an excess profits tax takes some money out of circulation, and so is a good deflationary device, it also helps inflation. For example:

A firm which has to pay, say, a 95 percent excess profits tax—on 95 cents on every dollar over a certain amount of earnings—may prefer to spend the money rather than hand it over to Uncle Sam. For instance:

If it spends some of that excess profits money on big parties or higher salaries for executives or hoarding labor, it can deduct the expense from its income as business expense and so decrease its excess profits.

Further, the argument goes, the excess profits tax is kinder to old, long-established firms than to those just trying to get started.

For example: Say from AAA has been long in business while BBB just started after the war in 1946.

Say the excess profits of a firm now will be figured on what is in excess of its average earnings for the years 1946-50.

Suppose firm AAA, the long-established one, had earnings averaging $10,000,000 a year from 1946 through 1950 but after 1950, because of defense orders, it makes $20,000,000 a year.

It would pay a flat tax on the first $10,000,000 of its earnings and an excess profits tax on all over that $10,000,000.

But take firm BB, which just started in 1946. While trying to get on its feet in the years 1946-50, its average earnings were only $1,000,000.

But after 1950, now established and thanks to defense orders, it makes $20,000,000 a year. It would have to pay an excess profits tax on everything over the first $1,000,000.

Some of the arguments for an excess profits tax go this way:

The idea of an excess profits tax on profits from the defense program will boost public morale. And—

It discourages firms from boosting prices since they have to hand over such a big chunk of profits to the government. And—

It would raise more revenue for the government than a flat increase in the corporation tax. And—

As for hoarding labor, padding costs, and things like that, the law should be worded in a way to block such actions.

Arkansas, SMU, Baylor, Rice Win the Nod

Little Rock, Nov. 2 - (AP) - Otis Douglas asked us to make a prediction this week on what kind of mistakes his Arkansas Razorbacks would make to lose to Texas A. & M.

We've a surprise for Doug. We think Arkansas is going to win. There's no flaw in the Razorback defense, and the offense is past due to roll.

And here's the way this forecast, with a 78.3 per cent accuracy rating on 261 right, 63 wrong and 11 ties, sees the others this week:

SMU over Texas - This is a case of the king of razzle-dazzle meeting a good power team. And razzle-dazzle can outscore power.

Baylor over TCU - The Frogs of TCU have played only one good game. That was when they upset Arkansas and they primed a full year for that one.

Rice over Texas Tech - Jess Neely's Owls get a chance to look good after running afoul of SMU and Texas on successive weekends.

Arkansas Tech over Ark. A. & M. The Boll Weevils have a passing dandy in David Anderson, but Tech has more than a one-man show.

Little Rock JC over Ozarks. Early Bailey, the Triana's great halfback, will hit Ozarks' tough line harder than anyone it's met yet.

Missouri Valley over Arkansas State. The Vikings are undefeated and untied. This may be their toughest test.

Bethel over Arkansas college. Hendrix over Millsaps, State Teachers over Magnolia A. & M.

Pine Bluff over Fordyce - All the Zebras want to do is get a good workout in sprinting before next week's big game with Little Rock.

Hot Springs over Fort Smith - Here's where the Trojans win their first Big Six game. It's been a long wait.

El Dorado over Haynesville, La. - This one usually is a dilly. Van Buren over North Little Rock - one of the better Class AA teams gets the nod over one of the weaker Big Sixers.

Van Buren's (Red) Bradley passes a football with the same deadliness as the flippers through the hoops.

Little Rock over Paducah, Ky. - Possibly Arkansas' best prep aggregation will want to strut its stuff in Kentucky.

Others - Springdale over Rogers, Fayetteville over Joplin, Mo.; Ozark over Alma, Russellville over Harrison, Spring Springs over Huntsville, Mountain Home over Berryville, McCrory over Bald Knob, Batesville over Walnut Ridge, Newport over Searcy, Pocahontas over Corning, August over Cotton Plant, Blytheville over Piggott, Marked Tree over Trumann, Harrisburg over Parkin.

Marion over Keiser, Osceola over Shawnee, Wilson over Tynonza, Wynne over West Memphis, Clarksville over Booneville, Mena over Greenwood, Waldron over Mansfield, Sheridan over Atkins, St. Anne's over Hartford, Lakeside over Blumark, Dermott over Portland, Rison over Watson Chapel, Subiaco over Catholic High.

Conway over Morrilton, Nashville over Malvern, Marianna over Benton, Bryant over Amith, Forest City over Stuttgart, Helena over Whitehaven, Tenn., Magnolia over Hope, Camden over Smackover, DeQueen over Texarkana, Arkadelphia over Gurdon, Horatio over Dierks, Crossett over Drew Central, Monticello over Eudora, Lake Village over Hamburg, Warren over McGeehe, White Hall over Dumas.

Konstanty Is Named Most Valuable

By JOE REICHL

New York, Nov. 2 - (AP) - Casimer James (Big Jim) Konstanty won the National league's most valuable player award today. He was the first relief pitcher ever to receive that honor.

The bespectacled, right-handed, whose great hurling in the clutch won the first flag in 35 years for the Philadelphia Phils in 1950, made a runaway of the one-sided race.

The 33-year-old native of Worcester, N. Y., received 18 of the 24 first place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The only survivor was that two writers failed to name him in their 10-player ballot.

Gran Hammer, a teammate of Konstanty, and New York's Eddie Stanky each received two first place votes. The other two went to Stan Musial of St. Louis and Musial, three-time M. V. P. award winner and last season's batting champion, finished a poor second to Konstanty in the point total.

Big Jim collected 286 points to 158 for the Cardinal slugger, Stanky, second base spark plug of the Giants, who third with 144 points.

Jim tallied in 74 games, a National league record, all in relief. He wound up with a won and lost mark of 10-7, third high in the league. In addition, Konstanty was credited with saving at least 25 games for the Phils.

Konstanty is the second Philly player to win the MVP award. Chuck Klein won it in 1932.

Chuck Klein won it in 1932. The standings with first place votes in parentheses (points) follow:

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Nov. 2 - (AP) - Story from Chicago is that Mrs. Grace Comiskey, the White Sox president, isn't happy about the phone bills incurred in transacting business with General Manager Frank Lane in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Field Manager Paul Richards at home in Waxahatchie, Texas.

She should try the Giants' setup with Eddie Brannick in Miami and pinstriped Stoneham and Carl Hubbell on a duck shooting expedition on Long Island.

Colgate's footballers propose a statute of limitations on penalties. Seems Center Bob McCall protested a call against him for illegal use of hands in a recent game, arguing "I didn't hold on that one."

The official just stepped off 15 yards, saying: "You did on the one before."

A recent moan from a minor league baseball operator: "Major league players are overdoing the all-star racket. When small towns are called upon to see Jackie Robinson's team, Connie Ryan's team, Dixie Walker's team and several others, we are asking too much of the baseball public."

Not a Bad Idea

Vito De Vito, assistant trainer for the Arnold college football team, is a better-than-fair semi-pro baseball player. And naturally he likes to talk about that game.

That's just what he was doing for hours on a recent road trip while the athletes were waiting for bedtime.

Then Coach Ray Stovick, an old ball player himself, wore and remarked: "Vito, it you keep that up the players will go out here on the field tomorrow and wait for a hit or take sign."

All University Gridders to Play This Weekend

Fayetteville, Nov. 1 - (AP) - Football at the University of Arkansas reaches its climax Saturday night. Virtually every player issued a football uniform in September will see action of some sort in triple-header for the Razorbacks.

The varsity under Coach Otis Douglas will journey to College Station, Texas, for a renewal of the 1950 Southwest conference fight with Texas A. & M.; the "B" team will match talent with Notre Dame's "B" team in Fort Smith.

Charlie Gray's freshman crew will tangle with a similar squad from North Texas State college at El Dorado. All three games are scheduled for Saturday night at 8 p. m.

The varsity will fly to Texas A. and M. for the game, leaving late Friday and returning immediately after the contest. Approximately 42 men are expected to make the trip.

The "B" will be playing its first game of the year. Van Sickle will use around 25 players a game against Notre Dame. It is the first inter-collegiate football game between the two schools.

Friday night's affair promises nothing better. The visitors are hoped to win and probably will - but the Bobcats now play a much better brand of ball than they did when the season opened.

Despite their habit of making opposition touchdowns easy they fight hard and the fans like a good game despite the outcome. A lot, its not too far fetched to imagine that

Bobcats Have a Rough Foe in Magnolia

It looks like another miserable night for the Hope Bobcats when they meet Magnolia here Friday in the final home game of the season.

The Magnolia eleven is rated tops in the conference in which Hope has yet to win a game. They have only one loss this season - that to an aroused Nashville team which was one of the biggest upsets of the season.

That loss at Nashville will only make the Columbian boys tougher on district teams. Last year Hope held a 21-0 lead at the half and when the rough contest was over the score was tied 21-21, with about half of Hope's team on the sidelines with injuries.

Shaw Comes George Bernard Shaw

St. Lawrence, Eng., Nov. 1.—George Bernard Shaw, one of the world's most famous playwrights, died today at the age of 94.

Shaw, the frail old Irishman who missed a fortune in the stock market, died at the shortcoming of his heart, after a long illness, at his home in St. Lawrence, England, at 4:59 p. m. (11:59 p. m. Standard Time, Thursday).

Shaw, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, on July 26, 1856, was a prolific writer of plays, including "Pygmalion," "Major Barbara," and "Man and Superman." He was also a social critic and a member of the Fabian Society.

Shaw's death was announced by his daughter, Elsie, in a letter to the press. She said that her father had been in poor health for some time, but that he had been able to get up and walk around his home for the last few days.

Shaw was buried in St. Lawrence churchyard on Friday morning.

Orthodox. Some of his comments, if made in Russia, would have landed him in Siberia. He attacked Karl Marx, the writer of communism's "Bible," as an out of date fuddyduddy, and said most Communists were talking through their hats.

His atheism also was questioned. He himself once declared "religion is always right. Science always is wrong."

The quizzical sage whose bushy eyebrows and beard and unruly white mane were known to millions, kept the ear of the world for 50 years by his mastery of the studied insult.

Though his career spanned the years from the Victorian to the atomic ages, he never lost the knack of getting attention by needing the pretentious or questioning the world's most cherished notions.

ECA Head to Make Mission to Philippines

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The White House said today President Truman is sending Marshall Plan Chief William C. Foster on a recovery mission to the Philippines.

Foster, as Mr. Truman's special representative, will discuss with President Quirino the report of the U. S. economic survey mission which opposed a five-year program of $250,000,000 in American aid.

The mission, headed by former Undersecretary of Treasury Daniel W. Bell, blamed the Philippines for most of the islands' troubles and called for drastic reforms as a condition of U. S. aid.

A White House announcement said that Foster will review with Quirino the needs of the Philippines and the measures that the Philippine government is willing to undertake to rebuild the country's economy.

"The Bell report said there is inefficiency and corruption in the Philippine government. It also said there is a need for tax reforms, new lands laws and encouragement of private enterprise."

After his talks in Manila, Foster will visit other far Eastern countries getting economic help from the economic corporation administration. These are Indonesia, Indonesia, Burma, Thailand, Formosa and Korea.

Foster will be accompanied by R. Allen Griffin, chief of the Far East program division of ECA.

The famed Indian scout, Kit Carson, chose Taos, New Mexico as his permanent home. His residence there is now a museum.

Union Head Sees Record Vote Tuesday

By The Associated Press

Jack Kroll, director of the CIO political action committee, predicted today that 45,000,000 votes will be cast in Tuesday's elections. That would be a record for a non-presidential year.

Kroll also told reporters in Washington he expects the Democrats to pick up three or four additional seats in the senate and 15 to 30 in the house.

If that happens, he said, it will "mark a historic change" because the party in power would be improving its position in an off year.

He foresaw a record vote on the basis of "terrific interest" in the campaigns, which in some states he said are "the most vicious ever conducted" in his memory.

Kroll's appraisal of the situation was at variance with that expressed by Leslie L. Biddle, Democratic secretary of the senate. He told a reporter that a personal tour he made through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and New York convinced him most voters are apathetic.

Biddle contended the Democrats' congressional contests to be decided on the basis of strictly local issues.

Biddle contended the Democrats will pick up one or two seats in the senate, where they now outnumber the Republicans 54 to 42.

But Republican Senator Brewster of Maine, who heads the GOP senatorial campaign committee, said he is more confident than ever that the Republicans will win at least four seats and probably as many as eight.

He expressed confidence, too, that the GOP will win a majority in the house.

In Ohio, Democratic Senator Byrd of Virginia praised Senator Taft, a Republican seeking reelection, as a "tower of strength."

Byrd, who heads the Democratic organization in his state but who often votes with the Republicans, gave Taft a pat on the back in an address to the Ohio Chamber of Commerce at Columbus.

Referring to Taft and his colleague, Republican Senator Bricker, Byrd declared:

was past its peak in most areas. The amount picked ranges from an estimated half the crop in northeast Arkansas to an estimated four-fifths in southeast Arkansas.

The corn harvest is near its peak in most sections. The rice harvest was reported as half completed or better.

"Both are experienced legislators of the highest ability and both have the complete confidence of their colleagues in the senate, regardless of party No state in the union is better represented in the United States senate than Ohio."

As co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor act, Taft has been a particular target of the CIO-PAC which Kroll heads. The senator, in fact, has said the Democratic party in Ohio is largely inactive and that the CIO-PAC is running the campaign of his opponent, Joseph T. Ferguson.

Forecasters Insist SMU Will Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Nov. 2.—(AP)—There were 61 correct forecasts in this corner a week ago. But there also were 13 incorrect ones and that perhaps is an indication that the fortunes will turn this week.

But once more, who is afraid? So here goes.

SMU vs. Texas: Southern Methodist, strong enough to beat Ohio State, is blessed with a fair line and a horde of high-grade backs. Texas has a powerful line and Fullback Byron Townsend. The Mustangs, now the country's No. 1 team, have the more diversified attack. Southern Methodist.

Army vs. Penn: Six weeks ago this looked as one of the Cadets' easier games. Now it may be one of their toughest. But Coach Earl Blaik supposedly has prepared for it with the same concern he gave the Michigan team a year ago. On that basis there is no choice. Army.

California vs. Washington: The long trip to Seattle will help bring an end to the California winning streak Washington.

Alabama vs. Georgia: The Alabama attack gets stronger, week by week Alabama.

Oklahoma vs. Colorado: Here's where the Sooners set a modern collegiate record with their 27th consecutive victory Oklahoma.

Kentucky vs. Florida: Two of the nation's best passers tangle in this one with Babe Parilli expected to shade Haywood Sullivan Kentucky to Shake Florida.

Notre Dame vs. Navy: The Irish finally found their stride in the final quarter of the loss to Michigan State last Saturday. They will be rugged from now on. Notre Dame.

Georgetown vs. Miami: It is a Friday night affair Miami. Ohio State vs. Northwestern: The Buckeyes are favored but not by boxcar figures Ohio State. Illinois vs. Michigan: Illinois followers have dubbed Johnny Karas as Red Grange II That's the conviction, Illinois.

Stanford vs. Southern California: Stanford.

Tennessee vs. North Carolina: The Carolinians haven't been the same since they lost to Notre Dame in the second game of the season Tennessee.

Colgate vs. Princeton: Tigers the class of the Ivy league Princeton.

Texas A & M vs. Arkansas: Arkansas defeated Baylor Baylor, in turn, spilled the Aggies Disregarding comparative scores entirely, Texas A. & M.

The others in a hurry: Friday night Loyola of Los Angeles over Hardin Simmons, San Jose State over Fresno, South Carolina over Marquette, Vanderbilt over Chattanooga, Villanova over Detroit.

Saturday South: Clemson over Duquesne, Duke over Georgia Tech, LSU over Mississippi, Maryland over George Washington.

East: Boston college over Penn State, Pittsburgh over West Virginia.

Midwest: Drake over Bradley,

Iowa State over Kansas State, Indiana over Michigan State, Miami (Ohio) over Wichita, Minnesota over Iowa, Nebraska over Missouri, Tulsa over Oklahoma A & M, Wisconsin over Purdue.

Far West: College of Pacific over Santa Clara, Kansas over Utah, UCLA over Oregon State, Washington State over Oregon.

A portable plow unit has been developed for quick clearing of forest fire lines.

A small orchid flourishes in Maine.

HE CAME TO KILL
by ADELINE McELFRESH

THE STORY: Aged, domineering, and somewhat sinister-looking Maggie Thorne is anothered to death in her bed and all her household, including nephew Peter who arrived on the eve of the crime, are suspects. Next her sister, Agatha, 74, is pushed down a stairway, but escapes serious injury. Leeana, youthful granddaughter of the murder victim, suspects cousin Peter came here to kill, but she also suspects Peter's brother Jasper, and even Jasper's wife Sandra, and Leeana herself is under suspicion. Before the inquest there is a scene between Jasper and Sandra. Jasper says: "I'm sorry I gave you the name of Thorne."

XVI
"YOU'RE sorry?" Sandra shrieked again. "When I think of marrying you and burying myself here to save your measly family pride I get sick, Jasper Thorne! I-I could kill you!"

She whirled away from him, buried her face in shaking hands, and stood there sobbing. "I didn't mean that! I just—Oh, Jasper, don't hate me!"

Leeana watched her struggle with pity and win. Jasper Thorne turned his back on his wife's pleas and walked stiffly out of the room. When he had gone Sandra resumed her seat and regarded Leeana with tearful eyes.

"Never let a man do that to you, kid," she said huskily. "Kill him if you have to but never let him make you crawl!"

"You weren't crawling. You were just—upset. If Jasper had a grain of sense—"

"A Thorne with brains?" Sandra snorted. "Don't make me laugh! Even by marrying into the clan you lose what sense you have. If I hadn't lost mine, I'd have been away from here long before now."

After that they ate in silence. The bacon and eggs, cold now, were like ashes on her tongue but Leeana ate them stubbornly. Sandra was right. Food would help—but would it help enough? Certainly it wouldn't keep one of them from being accused of murder—and hanging. Or was it the electric chair in Indiana? Shuddering in spite of her determination not to be squeamish, Leeana closed her eyes. She opened them to see Mart Preston standing in the doorway. He grinned.

"Is this a private seance?" "Seance?"

"You looked out of this world, sitting there with your hands out in front of you on the table and your eyes shut," Mart chided her. "I thought maybe you were telling Sandra's fortune."

Leeana shook her head. So it's "Sandra" now. She said, "Fortune is the future, Mart. None of us wants to look into the future right now. We're afraid of it. I know I am. Scared stiff of that inquest." Mart Preston sobered instantly.

"Yeah," he said. "Will it be—bad?"

MART looked at Sandra as though he were trying to analyze her tone, to separate the caressing, warm undertones from the fear.

"It will be bad," he said shortly. "When is murder—or its aftermath—a pretty thing? That's another thing about you people, the way you accept your own existence as a thing of beauty. You can't imagine the sordidness of living, of dying—violently."

"Ah," interrupted Sandra, "another lecture." She turned on the infuriating smile that Leeana despised. "Got an extra soapbox, Mart?"

Docility—grief—had dropped from her like a forgotten cloak the instant Mart had appeared. Watching her now, Leeana thought her more of an actress than they had given her credit for being. She was flippant, aggressive—everything she should not be in the face of murder, but she was getting away with it. Mart Preston grinned.

Corporation Profits May Set Record

New York, Nov. 2 —(P)— Corporation profits are pouring forth in a record flood — 51 per cent greater for the last quarter than in July, August and September of 1949 — under the shadow cast by threatened enactment of an excess profits tax.

The Korean war merely added a snappy flip to the earnings gain already underway. In the second quarter, before the war, profits were running 43 per cent ahead of 1949's like period. The third quarter gain of 51 per cent was in spite of a hike in the corporation income tax from 38 to 42 per cent.

But retroactive excess profits tax could whittle 1950's corporate earnings — now seemingly headed for an all-time record — down below the previous record of 1948, when company bookkeepers do their final figuring in March, 1951.

A compilation made today by the Associated Press of the earnings of 496 corporations in all fields of business showed these totals:

1950 third quarter $1,711,270,763.
1949 third quarter $1,129,795,589.
Increase: 51 per cent.

Many companies this year took the increased 1950 taxes out of their third quarter earnings, therefore, the profits over the hot months might have appeared even larger in comparison with last year's.

Taxes aren't the only thing that will make this year's earnings different from last. In 1949 many of the big companies did very well profitwise, but many smaller companies didn't do well at all, so the total corporation compilations for 1949 didn't give a foolproof picture of business earnings.

Even so, a scattered few were in the red in the third quarter, for reasons peculiar to themselves. However, there was no one industry in the '25 covered by the Associated Press survey that didn't record profit gains over last year.

Often the biggest percentage in profit gains was due to the unusual industry situation last year.

support prices, but in Brannan's view it does not have an effective method of carrying out supports.

Aides who cannot be named said Brannan is likely to lay the whole problem before house and senate agriculture committees soon after congress returns from its election recess.

Economists predict 1951 production of meat will average only 148 pounds for each consumer if nothing is done by the government to encourage greater output. The demand for meat, on the other hand, is expected by some to average at least 155 pounds.

In seeking congressional advice, Brannan will merely lay the situation before the lawmakers without making specific recommendations, aides told a reporter. He has said

Stronger Prices Reported in Rice Areas

Dallas, Nov. 1 —(P)— Stronger prices ruled both rough and milled rice markets this week, the U. S. department of agriculture's production and marketing administration reported today.

Farmers in Louisiana and Texas expect to finish harvesting this week if the weather remains bright. In Arkansas, combining is from 75 to 90 per cent completed.

Trading in rough rice was fairly active with millers competing for the current offerings.

Zenith sold at $5.10 to $5.25 in Louisiana and from $5.20 to 5.30 at Stuttgart, Arkansas. Ark Rose brought 5.50 at Stuttgart. In North Arkansas, prices on a green basis were 15 to 20 cents per 100 pounds less than Stuttgart quotations.

Milled rice went up 20 to 40c per 100 pounds from October 24 through 31, influenced by firmness in rough rice and heavier shipments to Cuba. Domestic and U. S. territory buyers were still out of the market with enough rice to last them for 60 to 90 days.

While the senatorial contest has taken top billing, both Republicans and Democrats have waged aggressive campaigns for governor with control of the state government at stake.

John S. Fine resigned from the state Superior court to run for governor on the Republican ticket. The Democrats picked Richardson Dilworth as their gubernatorial candidate largely because of his 100,000-vote victory over the Philadelphia Republican organization only a year ago when he was elected city treasurer on a "clean-up" platform.

A big factor in the result of the election will be the position taken by the 500,000-odd voters who supported Republican primary candidates backed by former Gov. Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Grundy, long time top man in Pennsylvania Republican circles, has kept silent during the general election campaign. So far, U. S. Rep. John C. Kunkel, defeated senatorial candidate backed by Grundy.

Jay Cooke, who lost out for the gubernatorial nomination, picked the winning primary ticket. His support but refused an invitation to attend a fund-raising rally. Republican senator Edward Martin, who also backed Kunkel and Cooke, has made only one speech in the state. In that speech, he urged election of the Republican ticket.

A Dutch sloop carrying $15,000 in cash sank off Lewes, Del., 1780, with only a few crew members recovered.

Leffel Gentry Is Attorney for Tax Commission

Little Rock, Nov. 1 —(P)— Leffel Gentry of Little Rock is new attorney for the Arkansas Tax commission.

His appointment to succeed Paul Mullis, resigned, was announced yesterday by Commission Chairman C. P. Newton.

Gentry was an unsuccessful candidate for a Democratic nomination for associate justice of the Arkansas Supreme court at last summer's primaries. Until he resigned to run for the court, he was an attorney for the Missouri Pacific railroad.

He is a former assistant attorney general and chief attorney for the state revenue department.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 —(P)— Pennsylvania's choice, next Tuesday of a U. S. senator and a new governor will be watched closely for a sign of the times in '52.

The central figure is James H. Duff, 67-year-old Republican governor who fought the old-guard leadership at the 1948 GOP convention, and this year scored a smashing primary victory that established him without question as Pennsylvania's No. 1 man in the party.

Red-headed Jim, nominee for the senate, heads a ticket which he personally picked for six state offices. He has been mentioned by both Democrats and Republicans as a 1952 presidential possibility.

His opponent is Senator Francis Meyers, top Democrat in the state, assistant majority leader of the senate, a steady backer of both New Deal and Fair Deal policies. He has served three terms in the house, once in the senate.

Their campaign has been almost exclusively on the national level. Duff accused the Truman administration of wasteful spending, of failure to build up an adequate defense before Korea. He cited the work of his four-year state administration in public improvements, highways, and public health and recreation.

The Democratic senator replied that Republicans hamstring federal defense preparations that much of the state program was made possible only by federal appropriations and programs, and appealed to the voters to strengthen President Truman's hand in November. Duff has "a burning desire to be President. Duff couldn't successfully run for president and at the same time learn how to be a senator," Myers said.

Duff has ignored Myers' reference to his possible presidential ambitions. And his response was "one thing at a time" when he was introduced as the "next president of the United States" at a meeting of the Republican state committee.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Up to and including the early days of World War II, Service Station Operators and Automobile Dealers were making a fair, equitable and reasonable profit in the washing and lubrication of automobiles. Along came World War II and with it a rise in prices. After the war, of course, came inflation. The prices of materials and labor soared and so did the price of their by-products from houses to salt. But the price charged for lubrication and wash jobs remained the same and the dispensers of these services have continued to operate at a loss.

It was the hope of all Service Station Operators and Automobile Dealers that this service of lubrication and washing could remain at the same price until at such time prices receded and a period of normalcy was reached. However the trend of recent events indicate that such period is not within the foreseeable future. Therefore, it is no longer possible to maintain the same prices on the services mentioned above. We cannot continue to operate at a loss.

Effective November 1, 1950, the prices for lubrication and wash services will be as follows:

- Wash and Grease Combination . $2.50
- For a Single Wash Job . . . . . $1.50
- For a Single Lubrication Job . . . . $1.25

Better Buy Buick!

WANT to be free from that nervous tensing up for a jolt every time a rough spot looms in the road ahead? Want to enjoy the relaxing feel of a sure-footed car beneath you, that stays level even when the road doesn't? Well, sir, ease into a Buick and see how such matters are cared for.

See what a wonderful difference in level buoyancy coil springs can make when you have them on all four wheels, not just the front ones. Note what firm and solid steadiness is yours when a full-length torque-tube drive is your keel—how smoothly you stay on course when the rear wheels can't help but run true.

See what big, low-pressure tires and Buick's wide rims can do to pillow your course without jounce or sway.

In other words, sample this two-ton beauty for over-all stance and balance—and the cradling comfort of its roomy interiors. And while you're at it, get the very special thrill of its mighty Fireball power plant, plus the free-as-a-bird-in-flight bliss of its Dynaflow Drive.*

It's an experience that you owe yourself—and it's yours for the asking. The thing to do is get in touch with your Buick dealer—and discover the ride that only Buick owners know.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional on other Buick models.

Coldest October in Record in Arkansas

Little Rock, Nov. 2.—(UP)—In the cities and towns in Arkansas recorded the coldest October 31 on record yesterday. The mercury hit 85 degrees in the capital city yesterday, an all-time high for Oct. 31. The highest temperature readings in the state were reported at Morrilton and Dardanelle where the mercury soared to 88 degrees. Other highs were Batesville, Camden, Arkadelphia, Fort Smith and Newport 87 degrees; Pine Bluff 86, and Texarkana and El Dorado 84.

The forecast today says the unseasonable heat wave will break.

GOPs Want an Answer to Truman

By JACK BELL.
Washington, Nov. 1.—(P)—Republican leaders appeared today to answer President Truman's single-shot political speech Saturday night.

There seemed to be small chance, however, that Vandenberg would feel physically able to take on the task of a 30-minute radio broadcast. He has been ill for months.

If he gives an expected negative reply today, the Republicans may turn to Harold E. Stassen, a 1948 presidential aspirant, for their answer to the President's Saturday night radio summation of the 1950 congressional campaign issues.

GOP National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson was reported scurrying around for the $15,000, which could be needed to hook up one network (probably Mutual) to reply to the four-network address by the President, which will cost the Democratic national committee $50,000. The Democratic national committee announced last night that Mr. Truman's address, to be broadcast from St. Louis, will be carried by one of the largest radio and television hookups in history—nearly 1,200 radio and 76 television stations.

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., called, meanwhile, for a huge vote on election day next Tuesday to put in office "men and women who will support—not obstruct—the policies to which this nation is now firmly dedicated."

In a CBS network speech last night, Boyle said:

"In 1948, when voters in large numbers failed to vote, we had the spectacle of the 80th congress—a congress that opposed the President on vital domestic matters that affected American strength in the world."

"In 1948 the people had to repair the damage done by the 80th congress by electing Democratic majorities in both branches of the congress."

The national chairman said, he was "absolutely confident" the Democrats would repeat the 1948 victory next Tuesday.

tee spokesman said the decision on who will make the GOP reply to Mr. Truman's campaign talk may come today. If Vandenberg declines, someone else probably will be picked by Gabrielson, Senator Brewster (chairman of the GOP senatorial campaign committee, and Rep. Leonard W. Hall (R-NY), chairman of the house campaign committee.

Catholics Add New Church Dogma

Vatican City, Nov. 2.—(P)—Pope Pius XII formally proclaimed before one of the most spectacular assemblages of the Catholic church today the dogma that Mary, mother of Jesus, went to heaven in body as well as in soul.

This, he said, had been divinely revealed. The new dogma thus became part of the church creed which 400,000,000 Roman Catholics throughout the world must accept risk exposure to heresy.

The last dogma added to the church doctrine was in 1870. The pronouncement, contained in a long papal bull, was read from a temporary throne before the central doors of St. Peter's Basilica.

In front of the pontiff stretched a throng of holy year pilgrims and Romans said by Vatican historians to be the greatest they could recall in Christendom's history. The event, they added, was the crowning act of the 1950 holy year.

Loudspeakers and radio carried the Pope's Latin words to the outer fringe of the assemblage and to the far corners of the world. About 300,000 holy year pilgrims were in the crowd, and perhaps almost as many citizens of Rome.

Massed close about the temporary throne were 38 of the church's 53 living cardinals. Banked on the broad steps close below them were 580 archbishops, patriarchs and bishops from all parts of the world.

Well up in front, also, were representatives of some 40 nations with which the Vatican maintains diplomatic relations. There were no representatives from the iron curtain countries.

France Told to Get on 'The Line'

Washington, Nov. 2.—(P)—Re-United States has put its foot down and apparently let France know she must make some concessions in her unyielding attitude toward German rearmament before there can be agreement on a supreme command for forces in Europe.

The defense ministers of the 12 North Atlantic treaty organization, deadlocked over the German question and believing that it involved major political as well as military questions, last night turned the complex problem over to two planning committees. They had given up after three days of meetings.

Today the council of deputies of the Atlantic pact organization, a working group of the top level council of foreign ministers, and the military committee, composed of the military chiefs of staff, set about devising some plan acceptable to all. The task of the two committees was to coordinate the military and political angles.

When France announced a proposal under which the matter of German rearmament would be linked to creation of a European defense council, the question ceased to be purely military. It involved also something like a federation in Europe, perhaps a minister and a special body. The United States plan was to go ahead and form some German divisions, perhaps eight or ten, as part of the combined force.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Marshall told a news conference "very great political questions" were involved—questions beyond the authority of the defense leaders to settle among themselves.

When Marshall was asked if the postponement of a decision on setting up a supreme command for the integrated European force meant that the United States did not want to go along with creation of such a command structure unless German participation in the force was agreed to, the defense secretary said:

"We want a realistic program." This was taken to mean that this country thinks that some of the possibly 50 to 80 divisions ultimately expected to be in the combined force should be German divisions—not just small German units scattered through a supranational army as proposed by France.

How soon might the deputies' council and the military committee be expected to complete their work and the defense ministers to reconvene? Marshall said they had been instructed to report "with celerity."

It developed that the much-discussed French plan actually is

Man Questioned in Connection With Slaying

Van Buren, Nov. 2.—(P)—A man is being questioned here in connection with the five-month-old slaying of a Memphis clothing salesman.

He's booked as Harry Alvin Chancellor, 38, of Kansas City. Also held is Nellie Grace Meador, known to the defense ministers only in the form of an address made in Paris over the weekend by French Foreign Minister Pleven. French defense Minister Jules Moch has added to this, in the sessions in Washington, his explanation of the points made in Pleven's address.

ows, 22, of Greenville, Ky., who was arrested with Chancellor at a bus station here.

Police Chief Voll Russell said Chancellor was being investigated in the killing of Ray S. Roberts, who was found shot to death on a lonely road near West Memphis, Ark., last June 3.

Russell said Chancellor denied any knowledge of the killing or having been in Memphis but bond and a social security card, identified as having been stolen from a Memphis hotel last June 27, were found in his possession.

Ballistics tests are being made of a pistol Chancellor had sold at Texarkana before being arrested.

Russell said Chancellor had served several penitentiary terms, including one in Missouri for homicide.
